REPARATIONS CONFERENCE

EFFECTS IN GERMANY.

BERLIN, August 15.
Germany has paid half a million sterling on account of the current instalment of two millions payable house
debts. During the past fortnight Germany reported 123,000 tons of coal from England. The breakdown of the London conference produced the utmost relief and uneasiness on the bourse and in business circles. The weakness of the mark removes a reliable basis of calculation, rendering business difficult, perhaps impossible, and probably engendering a further increase of the cost of living. The newspapers vigorously refute M.
Poincaré's assertion that Germany is stubbornly committing bankruptcy.

FRENCH OPINIONS.

PARIS, August 15.
The newspapers accuse Lloyd George of responsibility for wrecking the conference. They generally ascribe the breakdown to the publication of the "Hollon" Note which did not permit Mr. George to take steps towards a compromise.

AUSTRIA'S DEMANDS.

LONDON, August 15.
It appears that the Austrian note considered by the conference requested a further loan of fifteen millions
sterling, declaring that unless the money were forthcoming the government would be obliged to declare its inability to carry on. Mr. Lloyd George pointed out that twelve and a half millions had already been advanced without any appreciable improvement. It was only fair to tell the League of Nations that the Powers
all felt the extreme difficulty of making further subscriptions.

LONDON PRESS OPINIONS.

LONDON, August 15.
The breakdown of the conference is generally deeply deplored. M. Poincaré reaffirmed that France was now free to take independent action against Germany
if she were outvoted on the reparations commission; but it is hoped she would refrain from such perilous action which the Coalition organs think would signify the tearing up of the treaty of Versailles. It is hoped that a harmonious solution may yet be found, possibly by a later conference at which reparations and inter allied debts can be considered together. It appears that in the last stage of the conference France stood alone in her refusal of the final compromise proposals involving adjustment until after the allies had carried out their funding operations with the United States, and the immediate application of the guarantees already demanded from Germany by the committee on guarantees. It is pointed out in Liberal organs that Lloyd George might still secure an acceptable settlement
by offering to remit France's war debts in return for a more reasonable view of reparations. Coalition organs reason with France in friendly but more or less strong terms. The Post and the Times concur in thinking that new men are needed to take the reins of British policy,
the cornerstone whereof should be, according to the Post,
a sensible understanding with France. The Daily Mail declares that the British people are not going to allow any British administration to quarrel with France for the satisfaction of the Germans.

GERMANY POSTPONES PAYMENT.

BERLIN, August 15.
The Government has addressed a note to the British, French, Italian and Belgian governments
declaring that owing to foreign currency requirements for urgently needed necessities of life and the fall of the mark it will be unable to meet the clearing house payment of two million sterling due to-day.

FOCH TO ATTEND CABINET MEETING.

PARIS, August 15.
It is stated that Marshal Foch and General Degoutte have been summoned to Rambouillet in connection with
to-morrow's cabinet meeting there.

POST-WAR TREATIES.

GENEVA, August 15.
Up to date the League of Nations has registered
three hundred treaties including a batch of sixty just received from Germany the chief of which terminates the war with the United States. Two others came from Japan arising from the Washington decision concerning with Yap and Shantung.

THE CRZY IRISH.

BATTLES, BATTLES, ETC.

LONDON, August 15.
Nationals have occupied Kilmaree unopposed; the Irishers fled. Six hundred irregulars attacked Dundalk. Trains from Dublin are not running beyond Drogheda, which appears to be still in Nationals' hands.
Nationals have occupied Buttum.

HONGKONG'S CHANCE OF WIRELESS.

"SOMEBODY'S INDECISION."

LONDON, August 15.
At a meeting of the Marconi Wireless Company Mr.
Marconi said that last year was unprecedentedly difficult but this year improvement was already manifest.
They showed a profit of £275,000 and declared a dividend of ten per cent. on the ordinary shares.
£698,000 were carried forward to the credit of profit and loss account. The company would shortly participate in the opening of wireless services between South America and North America and South America and Europe. Similar services would shortly be opened from China and Japan. Referring to the delay in the making of the Wireless Chain, he said one consequence might be that British commerce would be handicapped by slower
and dearer communication, or its wireless messages
must pass through France and Germany or the United States until British high-power stations were ready.
This was lamentable in view of the fact that Britain was the pioneer in long distance wireless. It was a very high price to pay for somebody's indecision.

OPPIUM TRADE'S DOOM.

BRITAIN'S ATONEMENT.

LONDON, August 15.
A special manifesto of the League of Nations
announces that twenty of its members, including the principal European countries, with Germany, also China, India, Japan, Siam and British colonies, have accepted
the system of import certificates recommended by the opium advisory commission. The Daily News praises
the League's accomplishment, and says a certain degree of illicit traffic in opium will no doubt survive as it survived in the slave trade in face of international agreement but it is an enormous moral gain that the countenance of these Governments is withdrawn therefrom
and that condign punishment hereafter will follow its detection. Britain by her leading part in the change has done something to atone for the long disgrace of her enforcement of Indian opium upon China.

PORTUGUESE LABOUR TROUBLES.

A FRESH GENERAL STRIKE.

LONDON, August 15.
Reuter learns from Lisbon yesterday that the union leaders have ordered a fresh general strike in consequence of the workmen resuming on the 11th under the mistaken impression that the government had made a concession on the bread question. The order has been partially obeyed but it is anticipated that a serious situation will arise if the railwaymen obey and thereby attract other non-striking workmen. Martial law continues. A long series of bomb outrage denotes much communist activity.

nine wickets, Hallows in the second scoring 103

CANADIAN STATE-OWNED FLEET.

RESULTS FOR 1921.

The shipping world is agreed that the financial severity of the year 1921
has never had a parallel in the annals of maritime commerce. Conditions that with the dawn of the year showed signs of improvement grew steadily worse; money that tended to become scarce grew scarcer; tonnage, already in excess of requirements, continued to swell beyond all proportion to its resultant means of utilization. Added to these, the shipowner had to face a rate reduction on the goods he carried
of so much as 50 per cent., while to crown his troubles labour disputes arose and compelled him to send his ships to foreign repair yards.

It is, therefore, surprising to find that steamship owners are adopting stringent methods to retrench and economize to the detriment of expansion.

For 1921 the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, Ltd., is stated to show a balance on the wrong side for the first time. This is stated to be over $8,000,000, but includes depreciation, which is probably a very substantial item. Particular interest is attached to the performance of this State-owned fleet. The ordinary steamship company adds to its fleet by degrees, the policy naturally being to increase the number of steamers in proportion to the traffic returns, or accordingly as trade conditions warrant. With the C.G.M.M. however, the case was different.

Under pressure from the Mother Country, Canada undertook the building of cargo steamers during the war
to relieve the scarcity of tonnage, with the result that she found herself in possession of a fleet of steamers at the close of hostilities when her exports of munitions and supplies had assumed enormous proportions. She found herself, nevertheless, largely dependent upon the steamers of other countries to distribute her vast output, and it seemed probable that these countries themselves would require all the tonnage they could find for the carriage of the produce of their own nationals.

It will thus be seen that the C.G.M.M. came into being, not as a speculative acquisition, but as a vital factor in the Dominion's welfare as well as that of the Empire. Although a large sum of money must of necessity be written off as loss
owing to reduced tonnage values and to the trade depression succeeding its inception, the C.G.M.M. has been directly responsible, during a difficult period, for the regular maintenance

of ocean routes which have not only been of great financial benefit to Canadian exporters and the industries
they represent, but have also been the means of finding a considerable amount of traffic for the Government-owned Canadian National-Grand Trunk Railways, to which they act as a feeder. It has also been responsible for the conservation of funds within the Dominion itself—which otherwise would have been disbursed abroad in the form of wages and costs of repairs
and stores—and also in the relief of unemployment in shipyards and allied industries.

New fields, or more appropriately,
channels along which to develop direct
trade with Canada, have been investigated and trade routes have been established to many ports which hitherto depended for their Canadian traffic upon the irregular visits of steamers, or upon indirect sailings
entailing cost of transshipment of cargo and its attendant danger of damage to shipments. Imports have, therefore, been enabled to enter Canada at first hand—an important step forward in the establishment of inter-empire
trade.

As far as possible the C.G.M.M., Ltd., in accordance with the original
policy adopted upon its formation,
has not encroached upon the regularly established routes of contemporary companies. Curiously enough it is upon these new routes that the greatest encouragement to establish regular services has been experienced.

An amusing experience is related in this connection by the captain of one of the C.G.M.M. steamers, plying between Vancouver and Australia. He had to collect some 500 tons of merchandise at one of the South Sea Islands and had instructions to obtain any other cargo available. On arriving in port, the fact that his ship
was sailing direct to Canada quickly became known and he found himself
able to secure an additional 1,000 tons of freight before leaving the port. Indeed he states that he was chased down the main thoroughfare by merchants anxious to obtain direct shipment of local produce to Canada. It so happened that this incident was the forerunner of a regular call by steamers of the C.G.M.M. on that route.

In reviewing the activities of the C.G.M.M. during 1921, one must remember that the company from its inception has had a vigorous struggle to gain a footing. Never before has the task of attempting to put a merchant
fleet into commission during a period
of three years been attempted, nor is it likely that again the situation will be such a one. It has meant of course a dual organization both on land and sea; the taking over of some sixty ships from the antiquated

PATTERSON'S
"PERSPIRATOR"

Has the "perspirator" come to stay?
Known in the United States as a "sweat-band," it consists of a bandage worn round the brows to prevent the perspiration, resulting from energetic exercise, from running into the eyes. W. M. Hoover, who won the Diamond Sculls at Henley were one of the regular patterns; also G.L. Patterson at Wimbledon when he defeated Randolph Lycett in the final round of the singles.

Spectators assumed they were adapting the "Leagien bandeau" for masculine wear.

A United States tourist informed a Daily Mail reporter that the perspi-rator is used extensively by American athletes.

"The perspiration band is made of coarsely woven absorbent material,
light and soothing to the skin," he said. "It is held in place over the eyebrows by a band of elastic or a light webbing strap and buckled round
the back of the head."

It is possible the "perspirator" may prove popular especially among lawn
tennis players wearing spectacles,
whose glasses are blurred frequently
by perspiration.

tion yards; the selection of personnel
to man the ships, and the building up and cohesion of world-wide machinery
to secure traffic for the undertaking.

Little wonder is it therefore, that in their third year—1921—the C.G.M.M. operated at a loss, even so great as it was. With the recovery of trade to normal conditions the company should assume a position of the greatest importance in the external trade of Canada. This is a factor which will not be lost on Canadian manufacturers, to whom already much benefit has accrued by the keeping open of trade routes to practically all parts of the British Empire as well as to other important parts of the world.

In the meantime the directors and the Minister and Railways are to be congratulated on their intention to lay up or dispose of the smaller steamers which have not been found large enough for the handling of general traffic on the ocean routes which are being maintained. When this operation is completed thirty-
eight ships will be left in commission,
and as the two largest ships of the line have only recently come into service this number should be ample to care for Canadian trade for at least
the next few years.

"Gets-It" Peels My Corns Off!

Any Corn or Callus Comes Off Peacefully, Painlessly. Never Falls.

It is almost a pleasure to get rid of a corn or callus the "Gets-It" way.
You spend 2 or 3 minutes peeling
or a drop of "Gets-It," about as easy as peeling an orange.

Use "Gets-It" peel off corn this way.
Simply as putting on your hat. "Gets-
It" does away forever with "contractions," sticky, troublesome, plasters, greasy ointments that rub off,
blood-letting, knives, and scissors
that slip into the quick. "Gets-It"
cures pain. Your itching corns, cracks, dies, loosen from the toe. You peel one corn valuably from your toe in one complete place. There is the pleasure of it—you peel it off as you would a banana skin. Nothing else but "Gets-It" can do it. Get peaceful, common sense "Gets-It."
"Gets-It" is the guaranteed, money-back corn-remover, the only safe
way, costs but a trifle at all chemists and stores. MFG. BY E. Lawrence &

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

REPARATIONS CONFERENCE FAILURE.

London, August 14th.
The utmost was done to bridge the differences between M. Poincare and Mr.
Lloyd George before the breakdown.
Signor Schanzer proposed the postponement
of the Conference for six or eight weeks. Mr. Lloyd George accepted, but
M. Poincare stipulated that meantime Germany should meet the obligations.
Signor Schanzer and Mr. Lloyd George dissented but offered to allow the Reparations Commission to decide the German payments. During the adjournment, France disagreed, whereupon the negotiations ended. Mr. Lloyd George declaring
"We argue to disagree."
The fears that the breakdown will involve a breach of the Entente is allayed
by the fact that M. Poincare subsequently joined in with others in considering the Austrian question.

The Franco-Italian delegation is preparing to leave to-morrow.
A Paris message says the Reparations Commission in a Note to Germany agrees to a suspension of the installment due on August 15th until a definite decision is reached.

London, August 14th.
The Conference has agreed to refer the Austrian question to the League of Nations.

London, August 15th.
The breakdown of the Conference is generally deeply deplored. M. Poincare has reaffirmed that France is now free to take independent action against Germany if she is outvoted on the Reparations Commission but it is hoped she will refrain from such perilous action which the Condition organs think signify the tearing up of the Treaty of Versailles.
It is hoped that some harmonious solution
will yet be found, possibly by a later conference at which Reparations, and Inter-Allied Debts will be considered
together.

It appears that in the last stage of the Conference France stood alone in her refusal of the final compromise proposals involving an adjournment until after the Allied had carried out the funding operations with the United States and immediate application of guarantees already demanded from Germany by the Committee of Guarantees. It is pointed out in the Independent Liberal organs that Mr.
Lloyd George might still secure an acceptable settlement by offering to remit France's war debts in return for a more reasonable view of the Reparations.
The Condition organs reason with France in friendly but none the less strong terms.

The Morning Post and The Times concur in thinking that new men are needed to take the reins of British policy, the corner stone of which should, according to the Post, be a sensible understanding with France.

The Daily Mail declares that the British people are not going to allow any Allied administration to quarrel with an ally
for the satisfaction of the Germans.

DEATH OF LORD NORTHCILIFFE.

LATER.

The death of Lord Northcliffe has evoked very numerous expressions of grief at home and abroad. Expressions of sympathy flowed to Lady Northcliffe throughout yesterday, the senders including President Harding, Mr. Hughes (Prime Minister of Australia) and M. Millerand,
President of France.
The life story of Lord Northcliffe is featured in all the morning papers which term him the Prince of Journalists. They dwell on the greatness of his genius the tremendous power he wielded, and his remarkable achievements in transforming the newspaper world and pay tribute to his great human qualities and his devotion to Great Britain and the Empire is emphasised by numerous leader writers.
Wide acknowledgement is made of the honourable part he played in promoting the Irish settlement.

The Northcliffe organs pay very warm
tributes to his qualities as a man and an employer.
The Times says his greatness and
genius were beyond question.
The Daily Mail describes him as a great journalist and patriot.
The Daily Telegraph writes of him as a great man and a great Englishman.
The Morning Post says his essential
bigness was undeniable.
The Daily Chronicle terms his death a poignant human tragedy.

The Daily Graphic says his purpose was to make a better, stronger and happier Empire.

The Daily Express says he was a whole-hearted patriot and his services to the State invaluable.

A more critical note is voiced in Liberal
and Labour organs.

The Daily News says his genius rather
the greatest congregation that ever assembled, but he had nothing to say that mattered.

The Daily Herald says his vast influence was used almost consistently for evil on general questions of public policy.

ILLICIT OPIUM TRAFFIC.

London, August 14th.
The League of Nations announces that twenty of its members, including the principal European countries, with Germany, also China, India, Japan, Siam
and the British Colonies accepted the system of import certificates recommended by the Opium Advisory Commission on May 19th.

The Daily News pays tribute to the League's accomplishment and says that to a certain degree, illicit traffic in opium will no doubt survive, as it survived in the slave trade in face of international agreement, but an enormous moral gain
has been made in that the conventions of Governments is withdrawn from the traffic
and that, coming punishment will hereafter follow its detection.

Great Britain, by her leading part in this change, has done something to atone
for the long disgrace of her enforcement of Indian opium upon China.

"TRUTH, JUSTICE, PUBLIC SERVICE"
HONGKONG, WEDNESDAY, AUG. 16, 1922.

"A LITTLE CLOUD."

So long as our contemporary the Telegraph appeared, however uncertainly, to be inclined to the right view of the pasteurisation of Persons Bill, so long as it seemed to be even lukewarmly against such an infringement of British principles, we welcomed it as a friend and ally in a good and most important cause. We would say no word to discourage or alienate it. We are now obliged to regard it as an enemy in the camp, as its latest contribution is far more mischievous than full and open support of the Bill would have been. Here is a quotation:

"All that now remains to be done in order to purge the Bill of its objectionable features is to revise the penalty and eliminate the wide powers given to the police. Then, so far as we can see, there will be nothing in the Bill to which any reasonable person can take exception."

Any argument less likely to appeal to a "reasonable person" would have to come out of Alice's Wonderland. How can revision of the penalty affect the principle? If the Telegraph writer were to have his pocket picked, would he consider it no theft because the thief took very little? Our opposition would remain unaffected, and our arguments the same, if the $250 penalty were reduced to one dollar. That makes absolutely no difference. The wide powers which the Bill gives to the police are certainly an aggravation; but where is the sense of advising the Government to delete them? From the Government point of view, to pass such a Bill without full powers to enforce it would be absurd. Such a law can only be put into effect by espionage, and by punishing upon those who ignore it. This is really part of our argument, because the Government, in promising never to compel the services after compelling the registration of these able to serve in quite obviously filling the gap. Except as a step to the ensuring of the services, the Bill has no point. The Government position is that "human nature being what it is," the people must be forced to register, and then, being registered, will willingly respond when summoned. Our view of human nature is that it is usually more consistent than that. It loves to give; it resents extortion. We frequently have the impulse to give to a tramp; but never to a tramp who forcibly stops us. By this legislation the Government will alienate and make hostile many who would otherwise gladly have volunteered and rendered service. By this proposal it has already grievously insulted those who did voluntarily register and offer help. The only way to "purge the Bill of its objectionable features" is to tear it up and forget it. It isn't even like the curate's egg, parts of which were passable. It is wholly bad. It is conceived in sin against principle, and shaped in an iniquity of Prussian perversity. It is a poisonous Bill, poisoning the body politic. It is unnecessary, un-English, and unappealingly Hunnish. The doors of British freedom are bolted with boiled carrots if it passes. The danger is—oh Hongkong public—that it may pass as the servant girl's illegitimate baby did, on the ground that it is "only a little one." The Telegraph comment tends to that view. But even as the little baby grew up and became a big burglar, so this thin end of a wedge of patently Prussian legislation will lead to conditions against which you will protest, perhaps too late. Be wise in time. Away with the evil thing. Kill the snake in the egg. The Bill comes up for Second Reading tomorrow.

P. S. CONSTRUCTIVE.

This morning's Daily Press has a leader giving well-reasoned arguments against the Bill. To one sentence only we take exception. Our contemporary says: "No person who understands that the Bill applies not to British subjects alone but to men of many foreign nationalities could have supposed that conscription in any form was intended." We understand and understand that, and we did and still do so suppose. Foreign residents in Hongkong are subject to our laws. They have no extra-territorial privilege in a British Colony. If our contemporary means that our legislators would not have the audacity to conscript for industrial purposes in a crisis American, French or other foreign residents, we reply simply that legislators who have the cheek to conscript willing Englishmen, have cheek enough for anything. However the remark somewhat suggested to us a constructive proposal. Drop the Bill; and form a European Emergency Pull-together

Association, with an international committee to collect the desired information and to arrange organization. Let the Colonial Secretary or other high official be president, and all members be volunteer police to see that every newcomer registers with the Association. That would achieve better results, firstly, because our officials have not yet earned a certificate of competency as strike-time organizers (vide strike time Daily Press) and secondly because it would remove the sting that the present Bill has for British amour propre.

ARMED ROBBERY THIS MORNING.

CITY PREMISES RAIDED.

Five robbers armed with revolvers and daggers entered the premises of a Chinese Import and Export firm on the first floor of No. 49, Des Voeux Road Central, about 9.30 this morning and made a haul worth over $500. The shop people, the proprietor and his clerk, numbering about 10 men, were taken by surprise while they were having their morning meal, and had no chance of offering any resistance. The robbers killed all their victims in a small cubicle after having bound and gagged them. They took a bunch of keys from the proprietor, and while one man stood guard over the victims, the others set to work on two safes which they succeeded in opening, and emptying them of their contents, over $300 in local currency and American gold dollars. All the robbers made good their escape after spending about a quarter of an hour in the shop.

COINERS CAUGHT.

WITH COMPLETE OUTFIT.

Mr. T. H. King, D. S. P., Kowloon, and a party of police executed a search warrant in an unnumbered matchbox on Tunglung Island, Futu-mun Pass yesterday afternoon and seized a coiners' outfit, including tools, dies, presses etc. Two Chinese who were found in the matchbox were arrested and removed to the Tsimshatsui Police Station.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Cable Communication with Macao is restored.

Golfers will be interested in an advertisement published in this issue about Fungling.

Yesterday one British case of diphtheria was notified and there was also one fatal case of puerperal fever.

The regular monthly meeting of the Marine Engineers' Guild of China (Hongkong Branch) will be held at the Guild office, Sailor's Home, West Point, on August 18, (Friday) at 5 p.m.

A waiter employed in an eating house at No. 44, Woosung Street, reports that some time between 3.30 a.m. and 1.30 p.m. yesterday some one opened a locked drawer in the counter by means of a duplicate key, and stole a quantity of jewellery worth $70.

An amah employed at No. 15, Taihang new village has been arrested on a charge of larceny of $100 in banknotes and a gold mounted rattle bangle worth $25. The woman was alleged to have absconded with the property on July 29, during her mistress' absence from the house.

Mr. Ho Wing-kam, of No. 2, St. Stephen's Lane reports that his wife lost from her writing table some time between 10 a.m. on the 13th and 10 a.m. on the 14th, a diamond and platinum wristlet watch worth $800. She thinks that the watch had been gathered up with some old paper which was lying on the table and thrown into the dustbin.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon, with imposing Chinese ceremonies, of Mr. Fung Tuen-an, the murdered proprietor of the Hongkong Restaurant Shek-tong-hoi, who was shot dead in the vicinity of the police headquarters in the Old Bailey on Sunday night. The coffin left the residence in Chancery Lane headed by the Band of the Chinese Y.M.C.A. and passed the principal Chinese streets to the Taihauwan Cemetery. It was followed by the deceased's family, a number of relatives some of them in the restaurant business, and numerous other mourners, numbering nearly 500. Many other prominent Chinese assembled at "Yat-bing" Kennedy Town, to pay their last respects. Silk scrolls from the various West Point Hospitals were carried in the procession which was under the protection of a party of armed European Police Sergeants and District Watchmen.

PUBLIC BATHING BEACHES.

(To the Editor of the "China Mail.")

Sir,—What about asking our friend "Adversarius" to let us have some dope on the public bathing beaches. It is quite a long time since we heard from him on this subject. You did so much towards getting us what we have to-day that I must appeal to you again.

It was rather unfortunate that H.R.H. The Prince of Wales did not get a glimpse of our lovely beach, for I am sure he would have approved the spending of a few thousand on it from the Chater bequest, since this would have been "doing something good for the colony."

The present site at North Point is a good one, and about the only one left, but is an eye-sore to Hongkong with all its wealth and importance. An up-to-date building should be erected in place of the matchboxes, which would add to the beauty of the surrounding buildings, and many other improvements could be effected which would make it an ideal spot and a credit to the colony.

I understand the Chinese Recreation Club will sooner or later be deprived of their beach. This will mean that a great number of their members will be forced to use the public beach at North Point, thus taxing the accommodation to its fullest extent.

Trusting that some able pen than mine will take the matter up, or that some kind rich gent will come along and present us with a beach.

BRINY.

(To the Editor of the "China Mail.")

Sir,—I am in favour of the Registration Bill and the sooner it becomes an Ordinance the better. In the first place are the Germans not coming back soon when it will be necessary to keep a watch over them so let some of the new "conscription" under the coming Ordinance be detailed for that job. Besides, Stonecutters' Island must at all times be guarded. Also there have been too many murders in this Colony during and since the strike, and the latest one was that of Mr. Fung Chun Yuen. The "conscription" could at once be enrolled as special constables and made to patrol the streets where murders are likely to be committed with special instructions to arrest murderers when they see them. Yes, it will be a useful Ordinance, and let no one oppose its passage any longer. But I warn our law makers to insert a clause dealing with conscription objections, and insert a clause dealing with the members of the Kama Club will develop a convenient conscription.

Yours etc.

OUR RACE COURSE.

BIG IMPROVEMENTS ANNOUNCED.

Plans put forward by the Stewards for the improvement of the arrangements at the Race Course for the autumn and the provision of a members' enclosure were considered at an extraordinary general meeting of members of the Jockey Club at the Club rooms last evening.

Sir William Rees Davies, who presided, said:

This meeting is called to consider the proposed alterations in the Jockey Club premises. The stewards are in favour of the alterations, but as the changes are of a radical character they desire to ask the approval of members before finally sanctioning the work. Members have been invited by the notice convening the meeting to inspect the plans showing the proposed alterations, and they are now here for your inspection. We propose to effect a change in the stabling for the ponies where the pari-mutuel has hitherto been situated.

We also propose to provide a good sized, paddock in proximity to the stables where the ponies can be walked and seen before each race, the paddock to extend to the present main entrance. This we consider a desirable improvement. The alterations will also give a private enclosure for members, and it is proposed to use the premises now used for the pari-mutuel under the Grand Stand as a pari-mutuel for members only.

The lawn, from opposite the weighing room, would be raised in up to the front rail guarding the course. This would give the general public a larger enclosure up to the Wongneichung end, and it is proposed that the pari-mutuel and cash sweep for the general public be established in the place of the present stables and under the private stands. As to the entrance to the course, it is proposed to use the entrance facing the Cemetery for members only and to provide an entrance for the general public at the Wongneichung end. The present main entrance to be utilized for the ponies and their mafos only.

The main objects of the proposed alterations are to relieve the congestion which now exists in the proximity of the Judge's box and to utilise the spacious lawn which at present is practically waste space.

Mr. W. L. Leask of Messrs. Leigh and Orange, the Club architects, made a statement as to the tenders received and the meeting then unanimously approved the proposed changes.

WATER POLO.

LEAGUE MATCH.

Only one match in the water polo league was played off in the V.R.C. bath yesterday evening. The L.R.C. met the R.G.A., in a close and exciting game which resulted in a win for the L.R.C. by the odd goal in 5. Barros (2) and Franco (1) were responsible for the "victors" goals. Woods played a fine game for the losers and scored both their goals. The game between the Kings and the U.A.C. was postponed owing to the soldiers being unable to raise a team.

The V.R.C. and the U.A.C. played a friendly match which resulted in a draw of 4 goals all. Laing (3) and Botelho (1) scored for the United, while Bussobart was responsible for all of the Victorians' goals.

To-morrow's matches are:

L.R.C. v. U.A.C.

V.R.C. v. Kings.

P.C.M.O. REPORTS.

The annual report of the Principal Civil Medical Officer for 1921 mentions that during the year the training of Chinese as nurses was commenced. Previous attempts to do this had not been successful. However, on the termination of the agreement of the Japanese staff nurses it was found that Chinese were willing to be trained and eight were appointed for the purpose. They are doing well. Rather alarming figures are given about tuberculosis and influenza. The Analyst's report honourably mentions research work by Messrs. Lubatti and Lane.

TRESPASSER IN SHIPPING OFFICE.

BURGLARS TOOLS AND PISTOL.

Mr. E. W. Hamilton yesterday afternoon heard evidence in the case against Felipe Anzulo, the young Filipino who was arrested under very suspicious circumstances in the offices of the Pacific Mail S.S. Company at 11.30 on the night of August 1.

The prisoner was charged on four counts as follows: (1) being found on the premises with intent to commit a felony; (2) assaulting a Chinese constable with the object of evading lawful apprehension; (3) being in possession of an automatic pistol and six cartridges without the permission of the Captain Superintendent of Police; and, (4) being in possession of a burglar's outfit.

Mr. Leo d'Almada who appeared for the defence pleaded not guilty to all four charges.

The facts of the case were similar to those already outlined at the time of the prisoner's arrest, and the first witness called was Tong Kuk, the office boy who discovered the prisoner under a desk, but failed to catch him.

Commenting on this witness's behaviour the Magistrate said: "Your discretion seems to have been excellent all through."

The most interesting evidence was that of Mr. F. Mendoza, a Filipino clerk of the P.M.S.S. Co., who swore that the prisoner did not enter the office in his company on the night in question, although the office boy swore that he did. According to Mendoza, he became acquainted with prisoner about July 20. His wife had taken the man into the house for a few days' accommodation. Prisoner told him he had just come from Manila. He sometimes came to the office to see witness. On August 1, about 9 p.m., the prisoner came to the office while the witness was busy typing. "He came upstairs, and was standing for three or four minutes at my desk before I noticed he was there. The boy let him in. He was up there for three or four minutes. He asked me how long I would be, and I told him I had three or four statements to type. After that the defendant said, 'I am going away.' I said 'All right you can go.' I saw him walk away, and I thought he went down stairs."

Conting the witness said he finished work about 9.30 and before going he turned out the light. He did not notice anything strange on the top floor.

The Magistrate: Did you notice whether the defendant had any parcel in his hand?

Witness: I did not notice that. I was busy and did not look round at him.

While the defendant was stopping with you, did you notice what sort of a man he was?—I have had absolutely nothing to do with him.

Did he keep regular hours?—Yes.

What time did he come in at night?—Generally about 10 p.m.

Now, then, are you absolutely sure that he did not go into the office with you? I am sure you will not get into trouble at your office if you say that he did?—I would never have taken him up there at that hour.

The Magistrate: Now make quite sure about that. You must tell the truth. It is a very serious matter to commit perjury.—Yes, I am quite sure the defendant did not go into the office with me.

Mr. Edgar M. Wilson, chief accountant of the P.M.S.S., said there was $1,000 in the safe upstairs. In the Comptroller's Department downstairs there was $5,000 or $6,000. Mendoza was a clerk in the Accountant's Department and sometimes he had to do late duty.

It would have been an indiscretion on his part if he had taken a friend in the office at that time of the night although there were no orders out against that. "There are now," the witness added, Mendoza was still in the Company's employ and was a man that could be trusted.

Further hearing was adjourned until Friday afternoon.

FORTHCOMING MARRIAGES.

The following forthcoming marriages are announced:—

EXCHANGE CONTRACT.

GOLD DOLLAR TRANSACTION.

A QUESTION OF AUTHORITY.

The Bank of Canton Ltd., were the plaintiffs and the British Chinese Trading Company, the defendants to an interesting action concerning some exchange transactions in gold dollars which was commenced in the Supreme Court to-day before the acting Puisne Judge (Mr. J. B. Wood).

Mr. F. C. Jenkin (instructed by Mr. C. A. Hooper, of Messrs. Johnson Stokes and Master) appeared for the plaintiffs and Mr. O. G. Alabaster with Mr. Eldon Potter instructed by Mr. W. B. Hind of Messrs. G. K. Hall Brutton & Co. for the defendants.

It was set out in the statement of claim that by a contract in writing dated April 7, 1920, the defendants sold and agreed to deliver to the plaintiffs $275,000, delivery in April-May 1920, at exchange 98 1/2 d/s. The defendants had failed to deliver the $275,000 and therefore the plaintiffs claimed $59,820 88, representing the discrepancy between the contract and the market price on May 31, 1920, less certain sums due to the defendants on other contracts for the purchase of gold dollars.

The defence was a denial that the contracts had, at any time been authorised by the defendants. The defendants maintained that the plaintiffs well knew that no one was authorised to enter into contracts on the defendants' behalf unless such contracts were signed by or chopped with the private chop of Chin Tin Cho, trading under the style of the British Chinese Trading Coy., and that the contracts in question were not so signed or chopped.

In reply to the defence, the plaintiffs said that the defendants allowed it to be represented that one J. M. Xavier, manager of the firm, had authority to effect exchange contracts on behalf of the firm and the exchange contracts concerned in the action were made on the faith of this representation.

The plaintiffs further urged that by the usage of the Hongkong Exchange Market exchange contracts are effected by and through exchange brokers by whom only such transactions are signed on behalf of both parties. J. M. Xavier, contended the plaintiffs, was authorised to effect the exchange contracts concerned in the action in accordance with this usage. Alternatively the defendants permitted him to be held out as having authority to do so.

Opening the plaintiff's case, Mr. Jenkin explained that the British Chinese Trading Coy. was formed early in 1918, the sole proprietor being Mr. Chin Tin Cho. On August 1 he engaged Mr. J. M. Xavier as manager for two years under an agreement which provided, inter alia, that, in the absence of Mr. Chin Tin Cho (who was habitually away from the office) contracts might be signed by J. M. Xavier for and on his behalf but must be "chopped" with the private chop of Mr. Chin Tin Cho. Mr. Chin Tin Cho left the running of the business almost entirely to J. M. Xavier. Exchange brokers would be called to say that they had never seen Mr. Chin Tin Cho and that all contracts put through on behalf of the firm were put through on the instructions of Mr. Xavier. It seemed, Mr. Jenkin said, that where the contract showed a profit Mr. Chin Tin Cho accepted it and when it showed a loss he raised the point of want of authority.

FIRST S.P.C.A. CASE.

REGARD IT DISPASSIONATELY, WELL!

Inspector Fisher of the S. P. C. A. brought his first cruelty case before Mr. R. E. Lindell this morning. He charged two fowls of the No. 50 stall of the Wanchai Market, with cruelty to a number of ducks by failing to supply them with fresh water.

The Inspector said that he visited the stall at 3 p.m., yesterday, and saw the ducks in two crates. They were not crowded, but they must have been in dire distress. When he spoke to the first defendant, the latter said that too much water would spoil the ducks.

The defendant denied having made this statement to the Inspector. They were fined $20 each.

GENERAL CHAN IN CANTON.

General Chan Kwing-ming and his staff entered Canton by special train at 3.30 yesterday afternoon. They stopped at the Tungshan Station where they were welcomed by a number of officials, and proceeded immediately to General Ip. Ku's headquarters on the White Cloud Mountain where a luncheon was held in the evening.

The July number of the Silver Wolf (Scouts organ) has appeared. There are various moving references to the drowning of Scout Emil Anderson, notes on camping, the usual excellent nature notes by R. W. Barney, and a continuation of Editor Fenton's short history of scouting.

The Chinese papers published a story this morning about two African soldiers being shot dead in the streets of Marseilles in the late hours of the night, and their rifles and ammunition being stolen. The police arrested several Chinese living in the vicinity. A China Mail reporter made enquiries but could not get the story confirmed.

MR TAFT AND THE ABERDEEN STUDENTS.

Mr. Taft, Chief Justice and ex-President of the United States, met with a rousing reception at Aberdeen, where he received from the University the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws. Mr. Taft, amid shouts of "Broncho Bill" addressing the meeting, paid a high tribute to the Scots race.
"We know the Scotch," he said. (Cries of "Oh!" from the students, and laughter.) "We have been built up at home by their earnestness, by their religious spirit—('Oh!')—by their thrift, and by their modesty. (Loud laughter from the students.) We have all sorts of people with us, and nobody can be ahead of a Scotsman."

"Seriously speaking, the Scots and the Scottish-Irish are one of the two strains in our country that have made it what it is, and the Scots cannot escape the responsibility—(laughter)—not only for our virtues, if we had any, but also—(here Mr. Taft audibly chuckled)—for our faults."
"I was shaken this morning when I found at a simple Scottish breakfast that I was denied an opportunity of eating porridge. (Grooms from the students.) Whether it was that Scotsmen had been before me or whether it was due to the lack of foresight of some South Britain company, I don't know, but it was not until I came here that I felt what a real Scottish welcome was. (Loud applause.)"

B TOMLEY.

SECRETS OF HIS LIFE.

PRICE OF PERORATIONS.

Mr. Henry J. Houston, "confidant and secretary" to Horatio Bottomley, now undergoing seven years' penal servitude for fraud, tells several good stories of his employer in the News of the World.

"Of his passion for champagne dozens of good stories could be told," he says. "I remember arriving with him in the small hours of a Sunday morning at Carlisle, where he was to address recruiting meetings."

"All went well until 11 o'clock. That was an important hour for 'H.B.' At five minutes to eleven indulgence in alcohol was to him a sacred habit. At 11 o'clock it was an imperative necessity. I never knew him to drink before that hour, and I never knew him happy if the thirst-quenching ceremony was delayed much beyond it."

"On this particular occasion I rang promptly for the waiter and demanded a bottle of Pommery, 1906, his favourite brand. Quite impossible, said the waiter. Sunday was a day of total prohibition in Carlisle."

"Send the manager up," said 'H.B.' "The manager came, and Mr. Bottomley began one of his usual wheedling approaches. All without success. The manager was adamant."

"But," protested Mr. Bottomley, "this is a serious neglect of duty on your part. I wrote you asking for half a dozen bottles to be placed in my room, and nothing has been done."

"For a while the manager protested that he had never received the letter, but after 'H.B.' had inquired if he seriously intended to penalize a guest for the delinquencies of the Postmaster-General, the bottles were produced."

"As a matter of fact, no such letter was ever written, but 'H.B.' having given his personal assurance of the despatch of the missive, the manager, on the promise of being furnished with a copy of the letter, authorised the issue of the necessary stores."

"Well, that's that!" was 'H.B.'s only comment as he raised his glass to myself and the manager, who joined us."

AMONG THE GIANTS.

"He had one little vanity about his hair," Mr. Houston continues, "after he had submitted impatiently to the barber, he would always take a brush and comb and impart an upward curl to the back of his hair. In other respects his egotism was colossal. Around his room at King's Reef he hung portraits of great figures in history. There were Napoleon, Bradlaugh, Haig, Kitchener, and Bottomley. He loved to see himself among the giants."

"He was particular about having a crowded hall to hear him. Empty seats, wounded his vanity deeply, and, if necessary, people were to be paid to occupy them. He insisted, too, that the applause marking his entry on the platform should never be left to chance."

"Then the money obsession reached a stage when he felt that he could not go on the platform until he knew how much was in the house."

"As reliable information concerning the receipts was rarely available until the meeting was almost due to start, when 'H.B.' was usually in an ante-room of the hall being lionized by the local notabilities who were to support him on the platform, I had to devise a code in order to convey the desired information to him without disclosing to those around him the sordid character of his chief interest."

"That train you were inquiring about leaves at 4.15. I would say to him when my assistant had advised me that the receipts were £45. Anything between £45 and £50 was indicated by £40, and 5 o'clock meant £50."

"He had a sort of stock peroration, graduated into degrees of eloquence and loftiness of thought. These perorations were his great strength. They were always decided on first in the preparation of any speech he made, and 'loftiness' of the peroration depended solely on the receipts."

"For an audience that had only mustered 250 as his share of the receipts his stock peroration was an appeal to the public to rally round the throne of the Empire, to regard their Majesties as the personification of the national unity, and whether they believed in a monarchy or not, to realise that the King was the hereditary President of the British Empire. 'Forget politics and politicians,' were the concluding phrases. 'Remember the words of the grand old anthem, which says, "Unfurl their politics. God save the King."'

HIGHER ELOQUENCE.

"For £75 the prescribed peroration concluded something like this:

"When this great nation emerges from its period of trial—as, please God, it will—we shall stand erect shoulder to shoulder before the world and declare with one voice that Britain is the 'Land of Hope and Glory, Mother of the Free'—and so on until 'God who made us mighty shall make us mightier yet.'"

"A slightly higher degree of eloquence was prescribed in the scale of perorations for audiences that produced from £75 to £100."

"When this tragedy is over," it ran, "we shall be able to look the whole world in the face and say that this country, this England, has come out of this ghastly conflict with its name unsullied, its escutcheon clean, an example and precept for all mankind to follow."

"The grand peroration was reserved for audiences that produced anything over £100. When that news was conveyed to him he would say:

"Right! I will trot out 'the Prince' to right." That was a reference to the fact that the peroration concluded with an allusion to the Prince of Peace."

"People of a religious turn of mind will read this with horror; but there is no use disguising the fact that 'H.B.' at no time in his life had the slightest sensitiveness on the subject of religion."

"Sometimes, when he was unusually elated by very heavy box-office returns, he would say: 'I'll give them something to-night. I'll not only lead them to the Prince of Peace but I'll lift aside the curtain and take them right inside! If I ventured to refer to his levity, he would say: 'It's all right. The public like it, so what does it matter? That was the precise state of his conscience on the matter."

A FAILURE IN THE CITY.

"In financial matters his character presented a perfect contrast. When big financial schemes were afoot he would display a recklessness that was amazing. The thrill of a battle of wits against other clever men was the most stimulating tonic he could have."

"Yet in one respect he exhibited a meticulous scrupulousity in finance. He would never 'knock' a book-maker. A lost bet was in his eyes a debt of honour absolutely sacred. To pay such a debt promptly he would borrow, if necessary, at an extortionate rate of interest."

"Bottomley has often been credited with being a clever City man. As a matter of fact, he was always a complete failure in the City and in business generally. None of the companies he founded had more than a shadowy foundation."

"The City only attracted him as a possible happy hunting-ground for the sport of money-making, and he only remained there while he could do this. His knowledge of finance was practically nil."

"Distance and directions were hidden mysteries to him. Two hundred miles conveyed nothing to him and afforded no clue as to the time it would take to cover it. Of the positions of towns and cities in the United Kingdom he was completely ignorant."

"Once when we had finished a late meeting at Manchester he asked where he was to speak next day. It was Sunderland. When I told him he replied, 'Get a taxi and let us go now. I don't want to stay in Manchester to-night!'"

WATER CARRIAGE SYSTEM.

SANITARY BOARD'S POLICY.

The usual fortnightly meeting of the Sanitary Board was held yesterday afternoon.

Mr. D. W. Tratman presided, and there were present Hon. Mr. T. L. Perkins (D.P.W.), Dr. W. W. Pearce (M.O.H.), Hon. Mr. Chow Shou-son, Mr. S. W. Tso, and Mr. C. M. W. Reynolds (Secretary).

The only business before the meeting had reference to the extension of the water-carriage system on the Peak.

Applications from three houses in Severn Road and No. 142, The Peak were referred to the meeting.

The Chairman moved that the applications be recommended to the Government subject to the following conditions:—

(1)—The installation shall only be made when the Director of Public Works certifies that the water supply is available;

(2)—That storage cisterns, if provided, shall be screened to prevent their breeding mosquitoes;

(3)—That the servants' latrines of these premises shall also be constructed on the water-carriage system.

Dr. Pearce said a small storage tank was advisable in case the water supply was cut off for repair work.

Mr. Perkins agreed with the desirability of the suggestion, but said it would be disadvantageous if the general water supply of the house were drawn from the tank which was apt to be neglected and the advantage in emergency would be nullified if the water was below the proper standard of cleanliness.

The Chairman: Would the water supply be drawn from the tank?

The Director of Public Works: If it was not, there would be no supply for drinking when the water was cut off.

The Medical Officer of Health: I should certainly not have it connected.

The Director of Public Works: If it is not connected, I should raise no objection.

The Chairman suggested the following amendment to clause 2, above:—

That if, in the opinion of the Director of Public Works a storage tank is desirable, such tank shall be provided, and duly screened, and not be connected with the house supply.

The Medical Officer of Health seconded, and the resolution, as amended, was approved.

"RED FLAG" IN CHURCH

COURT ORDERS REMOVAL.

On the petition of the parishioners of Thaxted, Dunmow, Essex, a Consistory Court at Chelmsford, Essex, granted a faculty directing the removal of a Sinn Féin flag and a Red flag from the parish church. The flags had been placed there by the vicar, the Rev. Conrad Noel.

The parishioners, it was stated, asked for the removal of the flags on the grounds that they were placed in the church without a faculty and that they were illegal ornaments. Four or five times between May and July last year the flags were torn down and replaced. Once they were torn down by Cambridge undergraduates.

A other time people invaded the church with ladders. A man scaled a ladder, took down the Red flag and put it in his pocket. Mr. Noel grabbed at the pocket and pulled out a flag which proved to be a Union Jack. The "invader" said to the police, "I give this man (Mr. Noel) in charge for 'picking my pocket.'"

Mr. Charles, K.C. (presiding): An extremely undignified thing for the House of God.

Mr. Conrad Noel said the flags were first placed in the church in 1916. The disturbances were not caused by parishioners, but by strangers who forcibly entered the church. The Red flag was not a Bolshevik flag.

Mr. Charles, granting the faculty, said that the flags had been a definite focus of disorder in Thaxted Church.

SUN TALKS AT SHANGHAI

A MANIFESTO ISSUED.

WHAT HE THINKS OF CHAN.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 16.

Sun Yat-sen to-day issued a manifesto, a feature of which is his references to the Canton revolt. "The real facts are," he says, "that Chan Kwing-ming instigated the second division of the commerce attack, first looting then bombarding and committing incendiaryism. Chan Kwing-ming was determined to destroy the Government and drive me into a death trap, but I escaped and accordingly tried to camouflage his attempted assassination as a movement to force me into political retirement." As regards the present situation in China to-day Sun says the constitutional movement will terminate when parliament is again functioning completely freely. What, however, is immediately urgent is to devise measures for the security of permanent peace. He still thinks the scheme of forming labour battalions out of disbanded soldiers is a good prescription for the national ill.—Reuter.

AT VLADIVOSTOK.

A WAVE OF IMPERIALISM.

PEKING, Aug. 15.

According to Japanese telegrams from Vladivostok a recent meeting called to elect a new head of the Government declared in favour of imperial Russia resolving that power to appoint a chief executive in Vladivostok lay solely with the Romanoff house. In the absence of a representative of the former imperial family, however, it was resolved that M. Dietrichs be placed at the head of the Government and the latter took office as dictator from M. Markov on August 8. On August 10 the conference adjourned after appointing an executive council of forty members and inter alia resolving that all republicans and socialists should be expelled from the maritime province. M. Markov has been appointed to represent the new government at Washington.—Reuter.

WIFE'S HONOUR.

JUDGE AND "FRIVOLOUS" DIVORCE SUIT.

The hearing was concluded in the Divorce Court in mail week before Mr. Justice Salter of the divorce petition in which Mr. Louis Duerden Douglas Sewell, a veterinary surgeon, of Elizabeth-street, Westminster, alleged the misconduct of his wife, Beatrice Marion, with Mr. Donald Spicer. The allegations were denied. Mr. Sewell's case was that when he went to France in 1917 as an officer in the Army Veterinary Corps he asked his friend Corporal Spicer to look after his wife and assist her on her removal from Aldershot to Chertsey, his parents' home. He alleged that during the ten days that Mrs. Sewell stayed at Aldershot Mr. Spicer visited her and that there was misconduct.

Mrs. Sewell said that during her ten days at Aldershot Mr. Spicer was at her rooms four or five times in the evenings. He came to see her at Chertsey at her father-in-law's invitation three or four times.

Mr. Patrick Hastings, K.C., her counsel: Have you ever seen him since?—No.

Have you at any time been in love with him?—No.

Has he ever kissed you?—No.

Have you ever kissed him?—Certainly not.

Have you ever committed adultery with him?—Certainly not.

Cross-examined by Mr. J. D. Casals, for the husband, Mrs. Sewell said that at Aldershot Mr. Spicer usually left her rooms about 10 p.m.

Were you and he ever together alone in your bedroom?—No, oh, yes, but the door was open, and I might have walked in when he was washing his hands.

Mr. T. Bucknill, for Mr. Spicer, read the evidence of Mr. Spicer, taken on commission before he left for New Zealand. It said that he was a married man with three children. Mr. Sewell, before leaving, Aldershot, asked him to do "everything he could" for his wife and he acted in accordance with this request, visiting her simply in the ordinary way of friendship. There was never any misconduct or familiarity.

Mr. Justice Salter: I think that to bring a charge of adultery after four years or so on such evidence as this borders on the frivolous. The petition fails completely and must be dismissed with costs.

KISSED BY PIRATES.

WOMEN PASSENGERS' ORDEAL IN BLACK SEA.

Seven Georgians, short, dark-visaged men with long hair and ragged clothes, were tried by an extraordinary Levant court sitting at Air-en-Provence, near Marseilles, for piracy.

This Levant court dates back to the time when the Sultan of Turkey allowed French courts to have jurisdiction over crimes committed in the Levant.

Altogether thirty pirates, disguised as passengers, were on board the French liner "Sourin," 2,839 tons, which left Batoum, in the Black Sea, for Marseilles on May 6, 1920, with 400 passengers. About two hours after the ship left the gang threatened the captain and wireless operators with revolvers, put the wireless apparatus out of action, and robbed the passengers, who were compelled to open their trunks.

The leaders, who wore masks, kissed the hands of the women before taking their rings, and left the passengers with small change, even giving some of them a few coins stolen from others.

Among the passengers was Mrs. Haskell, wife of the United States Commissioner to Armenia, who, with her two children, was robbed of every thing.

The pirates next compelled the captain to stop the ship and forced the crew to put them and their plunder ashore. Their haul amounted to £80,000. The men now on trial are alleged to be members of the gang.

TEETHING CHILDREN.

Teething children have more or less "chambers," which can be controlled by giving Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. All that is necessary is to give the prescribed dose according to the age of the child. It is safe and sure. Even the most severe and dangerous cases are quickly cured by it. For sale by all Chemists and Storekeepers.

Paying Debts in Old Virginia

In those early days, the English colonists used Virginia tobacco as currency. It was their most valuable crop.

Today, of course, Virginia tobacco is no longer a medium of exchange; but it is the world's best cigarette tobacco—mellow and sweet and fragrant, without a trace of harshness or bite.

Old Mill cigarettes are made of the choicest grades of this famous golden tobacco and nothing else. That's why they taste so good.

Try them today.

AUSTRIA WANTS ANOTHER LOAN.

LONDON, August 15th.
It appears that the Austrian Note considered by the Conference requested a further loan of 450,000,000. She declares that unless the money is forthcoming the Government will be obliged to declare its inability to carry on.

Mr. Lloyd George pointed out that 250,000,000 had been already advanced without appreciable improvement. It was only fair to tell the League of Nations that the powers all felt the extreme difficulty of making further subscriptions.

SENSATIONAL LOW VALUE OF THE MARK.

LONDON, August 15th.
A sensational new low value record for the mark was registered early today, when, in consequence of the breakdown of the London Conference, the price advanced to 4.30 marks to £1, compared with 4.70 marks to £1 yesterday. Other currencies depreciated sympathetically.

AMERICAN STRIKE NEWS.

WASHINGTON, August 15th.
The leaders of the non-striking organizations, after conferring with President Harding, announced that they would continue their efforts at mediation in the shipmen's strike.

ST. FRANCISCO, August 15th.
The strike of operators on the Union Pacific Railroad has been called off. Four trains left immediately for the east.

CLEVELAND, August 15th.
The soft coal strike in Central and Western Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois, North-west Virginia and Michigan will probably end today, as the miners and operators have agreed in principle on a wage scale. The output of the mines affected is 60,000,000 tons annually.

NEGOTIATIONS WITH CHUNG TAO LIN.

PEKING, August 15th.
Mr. Lenox Simpson (one of the Government's advisers) has returned from Mukden without having been able to settle the questions relating to the Peking-Mukden railway and Manchurian salt. Mr. Simpson states that after a great deal of discussion, Chung Tiao Lin consented to restore the rolling stock and allow the resumption of ordinary traffic on one condition which he (Mr. Simpson) communicated to the President this morning and which will be accepted for publication as soon as the matter has been considered by the Government.

Regarding the salt question, the position is more complicated. Chung Tiao Lin's position being that inasmuch as other provinces are retaining their salt collections, and Fengtien had remitted four-eighths of the millions of dollars to the Government this year, it will require a special Salt Conference at Peking of all the provinces to secure a general resumption of payments.

VLADIVOSTOK, August 15th.

AMUR RAILROAD HANDED OVER TO MOSCOW.

VLADIVOSTOK, August 15th.
China, in principle, has decided to turn over the Amur railroad to Moscow, owing to China being without funds to carry out the essential renovation of the track.

BURDENSOME LIVES.

THE RIGHT TO TAKE THEM AWAY.

Referring to the case of a man charged with murdering his imbecile infant son, Mr. Justice Kirby Swift, in his charge to the Grand Jury at Manchester Assizes said that there are some who think human life so sacred that in no circumstances has a man a right to deprive anyone of it.

There are also those, he continued, who think that for the benefit of the community many lives which are a burden through wickedness or mental disease should be put away. Between these extremes there may be a happy medium. This much is certain. In the interests of the State it can never be left to the private individual to decide whether a person shall die or not. It can never be tolerated in any civilized community that a person should take the life of another and then try to justify it by such an excuse as that it would be better that the life should be taken away.

MEN WHO FLY WITH DEATH.

(By Christopher Beck in the Daily Mail.)

After travelling some three hundred miles northward from Quebec you reach the jumping off place. It is a great pulping "camp," a town-ship in itself, but beyond it lies probably one of the loneliest regions in the world—forest, mountain, lake, and river, tenant only by Indians, trappers, and the creatures of the wild, and stretching right away to the Larren Tundras and the Arctic beach.

Down the rivers, out of the great forests, come the logs—millions of them. It is when the ice breaks and the long-prisoned torrents run raving with floods of melted snow-water that the great "drive" takes place.

The logs which have been stacked on the banks during the winter frost are tipped wholesale into the fast-rising stream and come shooting down in their thousands.

The river is broken by falls and rapids. Here it broadens into wide pools again; it narrows between iron cliffs where the pent stream roars and foams in long drawn thunder. And it is in places such as these that "jams" occur.

One log swings sideways, and within less time than it takes to tell hundreds or thousands more come piling upon it, damming the whole river from bank to bank.

Then it is that you see the logger in his glory, and realize why he is known throughout the North as the "white-water jumper."

Seriously without sense of danger, these wonderful men swim out upon the jammed logs. The soles of their boots are set with "calks"—sharp iron spikes—and each man carries a pole about 6 ft. long, fitted at the end with a steel spike.

Their keen eyes have spotted the "king," or key log, and all their efforts are directed to loosening it. The threatening flood piles up behind, the ice-cold water spurts through cracks in the "jam," but the "jumpers" pay no attention to anything except the task in hand. Logs are flung like straws, this way and that, and then you see that the key-log itself is being shifted.

With a roar the whole dam is breaking melting away and you hold your breath, expecting that every mother's son upon it will be swept to destruction. But nothing of the kind happens.

Laughing and shouting the men jump their agile way shoreward, and leap to safety upon the rocks. Some of their feats would make the professional acrobat green with envy. The men actually seem to love the danger, for on a Sunday, rest day the world over, they will often engage in contests of skill, riding single logs down rapids making them spin like tops beneath their steel-shod feet, leaping from one to another, and by sheer balance driving them in any direction they please.
